Kit – Snakelight

Sometimes the best ideas are the simplest ones; like a length of 230V light flex in a plastic tube (in a choice of six colours) which, when turned on, heats up and can be moulded into whatever shape you want. Whether you need to light up awkward corners of a room, or simply want to be creative with knots of light, the product, bought in lengths of 3, 4, 5, 10 and 15m can also be ordered bespoke in any length. Prices start from £150 (€220) www.creatmosphere.com

Snakelight

Creatmosphere first designed the Snakelight as an installation piece for the V&A's Brilliant exhibition in 2004. The interest it generated was so great that the practice's founder Laurent Louyer was persuaded to develop the design into a domestic lighting product. Once warm, the Snakelight can be moulded into different shapes and provides an unusual focal point inside or out. Standard and made-to-measure lengths up to 100m are available in six different colours.
